"I have had the pleasure of knowing Dr. Glenn Terry for years. He is a world class orthopedic surgeon as well as a world class person! I would put my full trust with my own health care in the work that he and the GARM team are doing in Roatan."

Starting today, continue your best stem cells protocols at GARM.

In late May 2021, the FDA announced the continued enforcement of its anti-stem-cell guidelines released in December, 2017.

These guidelines call for the cessation and potential prosecution for the therapeutic use by physicians of stem cells, including:

- Allograft products intended for injection such as Wharton's Jelly
- Cultured umbilical cord cell products
- Injectable amnion
- Autologous products such as adipose derived stem/stromal cells for injection as a standalone treatment.

The unfortunate result is that patients in the U.S.A. are denied local access to many regenerative medicine therapies provided by responsible physicians.

The reason is that the current stepped-up and more aggressive enforcement of FDA stem cell regulation disallows MDs from continuing to offer protocols they have been using successfully -- often for years.

Which may mean that some of your valued patients may not be able to get the therapy, treatments, and health improvements they need.

Plus, the FDA's onerous regulations can also reduce or even eliminate the revenues your practice generates by performing efficacious and ethical stem cell protocols.

A proven alternative to U.S. clinics for stem cell treatments

Now, there's a safe, modern, and cutting edge clinic where you can legally provide your patients with stem cell therapies: the Global Alliance on Regenerative Medicine.

GARM partners with associated physicians and their patients who wish to access regenerative medicine protocols that are no longer permitted in the U.S.A.

Our clinic is a cutting edge regenerative medicine facility constructed, equipped, built, and operated to U.S. medical grade standards.

Importantly, the GARM clinic is located in the Caribbean--overseas, outside the continental United States—in a country where FDA regulations against stem cell therapies are null and void.
